

Mittu Hears a Tring!!

Dr. Rohini Chintha, Hyderabad

Mittu monkey was fast asleep when he heard a sound - 'Tring! Tring!' Mittu woke up with a start. What was that sound! Mittu had never heard that sound before. Had he imagined it? No. He heard it for sure. It sounded 'Tring! Tring!'.

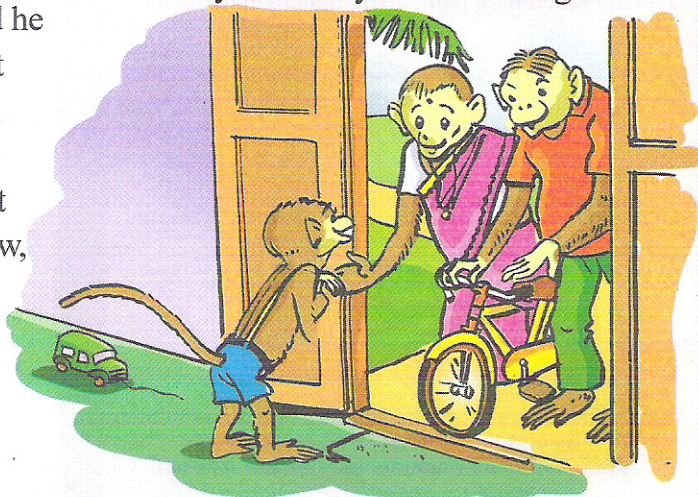

Was it Piggy pig, his classmate? No! Piggy always said, 'OINK, OINK'. Not 'Tring! Tring!' Maybe it was Bunny cow, who comes to give them milk. But then, cows always say 'MOO, MOO'.

Then who could it be! Mittu got up and looked out of the window. There was no one there. Maybe he had just imagined that he heard the sound! Ha! Ha! Nobody said 'Tring! Tring!' Silly of him! He got into bed and was about to go back to sleep when he heard the sound again. And louder this time - 'TRING! TRING!!'.

Mittu stared wide. Who was it? It wasn't Sunny sheep, the grocer. Sheep say 'BAA, BAA'. Siddu Sparrow says 'CHIRP, CHIRP' and Bashi horse says 'NEIGH, NEIGH'. And Lion, the king of jungle, said, 'ROAR!' It was not any of his friends.

Could it be Nidhi deer or Situ rabbit? Or maybe Ramu fish! No! They made no sounds at all. Who was it then!!

Mittu got out of bed and slowly opened the door. Surprise! Right in front of the door were Mom and Dad with a brand new blue and yellow bicycle! Mom rang its shiny black bell - 'Tring! Tring!' Of course it was the bicycle bell! Ha! Ha!

And the whole evening Mittu rode his bicycle and rang the bell, which went 'Tring! Tring!! Triiiiiinnnnng!!!'
